Chandler, Okla., July 28.—Under the offer of the American Press association which Courtland M. Feunquay received in a letter from Courtland Smith, president of the association, the Oklahoma State Press association will have the full $15,000 to build the state home for editors at beautiful Medicine Park. Mr. Smith offered to dispose of and collect all of the advertising which has been pledged by the members of the Oklahoma State Press association and do it absolutely free of charge.

The American Press association furnishes all kind of materials for the newspapers of the United States and as a part of its service maintains an advertising bureau which pledges an amount of advertising in all of the papers of the United States. Its connection with the advertisers will help in getting a hearing for the Oklahoma Press Proposition and it will not take long to sell all the advertising contracts. When they are sold the accounting department will keep track of all the newspapers and the amount of space used and the rate and will collect the full amount and

EXPECT DEMOCRAT FROM MAINE

Augusta, Me., July 28.—A primary was held in the Third Maine congressional district today to select candidates for the special election to be held September 8, when the successor to the late Congressman Forrest Goodwin will be named. The election is looked forward to with interest, as the result is expected to give a line on the relative strength of the Democratic, Republican and Progressive parties in this section.

The late Congressman Goodwin, Republican, was elected in September last over Gould, Democrat, the sitting member, by a plurality of only 709. Mr. Goodwin's success was attributed to his personal popularity, his long acquaintance with Republican politics and his intimate personal association with Thomas B. Reed.

The September election was held while the truce between the Republicans and the Progressives was in force. The Progressives had no candidate in the field, and those who desired to flock apart from the old parties had to choose between the Socialist and the Prohibition tickets.

In the coming election the situation will be entirely different. The change which has come over the situation since September last is traceable to the attempt of the Progressives to defeat Mr. Burleigh for election as senator last fall. They came very near succeeding, and as a result of the strength shown by the party then they decided to make a hard fight to elect a Progressive to succeed Congressman Goodwin. The man whom they have selected to make the race is Edward M. Lawrence, a practical business man and an experienced politician, with a considerable following in Eastern Maine.

It will be the Progressive party's first appearance in a congress election in Maine, and that's what the Democrats count upon to win. They believe that as the vote was close when the Republicans were united it will be easy for them to beat the Republicans divided.

The choice of the Republicans for the seat in congress is John A. Peters, an Ellsworth lawyer, who was Speaker of the Maine House last winter. The count of the primary returns is expected to show the nomination of William R. Pattangall as the Democratic candidate. Mr. Mattangall is mayor of Waterville, a former attorney-general of the state, a lawyer and editor, member of several legislatures and generally recognized as one of the ablest leaders of the Democratic party in Maine.

RUSSELL WOULD MANDAMUS STATE ELECTION BOARD

Oklahoma City, Ok., July 26.—Senator Campbell Russell applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus against the State Election Board to require it to submit at the special election the sand and gravel amendment to the constitution, passed by the Fourth Legislature in special session. Gov. Cruce vetoed the resolution, taking the position that it could not be submitted unless he approved it. Russell claims that the governor has nothing to do with the submission and that it was an error to send resolution to him. A copy of the resolution was certified by the Secretary of State and Russell in his petition asked the court to require the election board to get out ballots. The court set the application for hearing late this afternoon, but continued it until Monday morning until the attorneys can get the authorities together.

Gov. Cruce is represented by Judge C. B. Ames in place of the Attorney general West. The attorney general suggested that the governor get another attorney since he did not feel like representing a state official that declined to follow his advice. As the secretary of state followed the opinion of the Attorney General he appeared for the secretary.

Col. A. R. Rogers attorney for Senator Russell, suggested to the court that delay of the hearing until Monday would make it impossible to get the ballots out in time for the election one week from next Tuesday. Justice Hayes replied that the court had caused no delay, that the case was only filed today, and both sides had a right to be heard.

MEXICANS SHOOT AN AMERICAN

IMMIGRATION OFFICIAL FIRED ON AND WOUNDED AT JUAREZ.
U. S. MAKES DEMAND.

El Paso, Tex., July 27.—Charles B. Dixon Jr., the United States immigration inspector who was shot in Juarez Saturday by Mexican soldiers, was released from the Juarez hospital and brought to El Paso today after American Consul T. D. Edwards had made a demand for his release and for the arrest of the men who shot him.

Mexican Consul Miranda and Guillermo Porras, former Secretary of State of Chihuahua, also interceded for the release of Dixon, after a conference with United States officials, who represented to the Mexicans the grave impression that had been produced in Washington by the news of the shooting of the inspector.

The demand of Consul Edwards was in vigorous language. First telling the Mexican authorities that Dixon must be delivered up to his friends and permitted to be brought to El Paso without delay, the consul said relative to repatriation:

"I do not merely request the arrest of these men, but in the name of the United States government, which I have the honor to represent, I demand their arrest and their trial and punishment for this crime. My government will hold the military authorities of Juarez personally responsible for failure to obey this command."

Arthur Walker, the negro whom Dixon was investigating when he was arrested, and the soldiers who made the arrest, immediately were placed in jail, according to the report of Col. Castro, commanding the Juarez garrison, to E. W. Berkshire, supervision inspector of immigration for the United States on the Mexican border.

Dixon was released to Mr. Berkshire and brought to El Paso to a hospital, where his physicians believe he will recover.

Mr. Berkshire said tonight he made no demands on the Mexican officials, but had reported to his superiors the facts concerning the arrest of himself and inspector Clarence Gatley when they went to Juarez Saturday following the shooting of Dixon.

Mr. Berkshire said that from what he learned, the negro Walker, when he learned that Dixon was in Juarez investigating a white slave case in which Walker had been implicated informed the Mexican officials that Dixon was there with a bottle of chloroform ready to chloroform and kidnap him.

It is said the negro then bought drinks for the soldiers who were to make the arrest. When the Mexican soldiers had apprehended Dixon they marched him to the suburbs of the city instead of to the military barracks or City Hall. This, according to Dixon's statement, reiterated tonight, led him to suspect that he was going to be executed.

As a matter of self-preservation, he declared, he fled and became the target of many bullets, only one of which took effect, striking him in the back and penetrating his body. Another bullet struck his shoe.

Wounded, he was taken to the Juarez hospital by his captors and there, under a military guard of three soldiers, he was kept from Saturday afternoon until late today, when he was removed to El Paso. The Mexicans refused even to allow Dixon's blood-soaked clothing to be removed, although they did permit Dr. Tappan of the immigration office to cut the clothing and treat the wound Saturday afternoon.

Indignation at the Mexicans runs high in El Paso tonight and the treatment accorded Dixon has strained relations in this city between Americans and Mexicans as has no other incident attendant upon the present revolution.

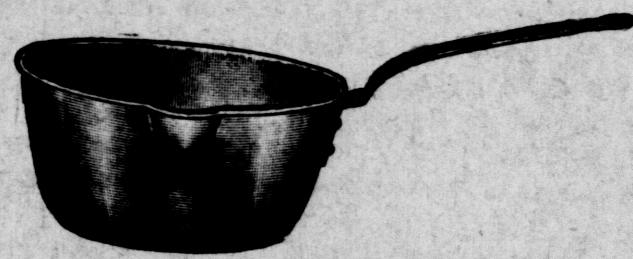

The Mexican officials of Juarez, both municipal and military, however, refused to make a statement concerning the course of action taken by them after it became known that Dixon had been seriously wounded by remit to the committee of the Press association which is in charge of the work. Mr. Smith says that the American Press association will be glad to do all of this work to help along the plans without commission or expense.

Sometime ago John Sheplar of the Lawton Constitution, who heads the committee was talking over the plans of the home with Mr. Fequay and at his request the American Press association was informed of the plan. The response to Mr. Fequay's letter assures the committee of having the full amount for the club house.

The president of the American Press association and Mr. Fequay are personal friends and for that reason he was selected to represent the committee. As soon as a list of papers can be made out and their circulation and other information about them tabulated the advertising will be let and the home will be started.

Most of the papers of the state have subscribed liberally and since the home is assured by the support of Mr. Smith it is thought that all of the newspapers of the state will join the association and offer the committee contracts for space. Dailies in several of the large cities have not come in with space contracts yet but as the proposition is assured and a responsible agency will assure first class advertising they will probably furnish contracts at once.

Senoritas Want to Vote!

That the cause of feminine advancement is progressing rapidly in South America is shown by news received in the last mail from Lima, the capital of Peru, where a feast was recently given in honor of Miss Elvira Garcia y Garcia, the principal of the Fanning Institute. No man was invited to the feast, but the most distinguished women of the country were present. The speeches made were notable for the advanced ideas they expressed, ideas which were never dreamt of in any Spanish-American country twenty years ago. The senoritas and senoritas wanted to vote!

Some men's idea of fairness on the part of a newspaper is to color everything up to make their side of an affair look its best; otherwise the report is biased and misleading.

The latest break on the part of the Mexicans was to shoot an American official who crossed into Juarez on official business. Looks like those greasers have mistaken forbearance for cowardice and that Uncle Sam will yet have to send an army into Mexico to teach them that Americans have some rights they are bound to respect. The lessons of '36 and '47 have been forgotten.

Of the sundry propositions to be voted on at the August election the News feels the deepest interest in the amendment to Art. IX, Sec. 9. Experience has demonstrated that the provision as it now stands works an injury to the state and there is no reason why it should continue to do so. We need more railroads and it makes no particular difference who builds or owns them just so we get them.

The Memphis Commercial-Appeal evidently knows very little about the Indian affairs of Oklahoma. It scores Senator Gore because of his proposition to deposit Indian funds in Oklahoma banks to be loaned to its citizens, and demands that the money be distributed to its owners, seeming to think Gore is trying to pull off a graft on the Indians. There is probably not a man in Oklahoma, unless it be some in the Indian service who would lose their jobs if the tribal affairs were wound up, who would not welcome

Mother's Friend in Every Home

Comfort and Safety Assured Before the Arrival of the Stork.

The old saying—what is home without a mother—should add "Mother's Friend." In thousands of American homes there is a bottle of this splendid and famous remedy that has aided many a woman through the trying ordeal, saved her from suffering and pain, kept her in health of mind and body in advance of baby's coming and had a most wonderful influence in developing a healthy, lovely disposition in the child.

There is no other remedy so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding and soothes the inflammation of breast glands.

Mother's Friend is an external remedy, acts quickly and not only banishes all distress in advance, but assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother. Thus she becomes a healthy woman with all her strength preserved to thoroughly enjoy the rearing of her child. Mother's Friend can be had at any drug store at $1.00 a bottle, and is really one of the greatest blessings ever discovered for expectant mothers. Write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 128 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their free book. Write to-day. It is most instructive.

READING CIRCLE

BOOKS FOR 1913-14

The following books have been adopted by the State Board of Education to be used as Reading Circle books for the year of 1913-14:

"The History of Modern Elementary Education," by Parker.

"Psychology and Psychic Culture," by Hilleck.

"Everyday Problems in Teaching," by M. V. O'Shea.

It is my desire that every teacher in the state use at least two of these books. "Everyday Problems in Teaching," published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, is one of the best books of its kind on the market and should be in the hands of every young and inexperienced teacher. Hilleck's "Psychology and Psychic Culture," published by the American Book Company is one of the best psychologies, and since the new law passed by the last legislature makes psychology a requirement for teachers' certificates, an examination will be given in the spring of 1914 based upon this text. This examination will be a rigid one and every teacher who makes a grade of 90 per cent or more will be permitted, with the consent of the county superintendent, to add this grade or credit to his certificate, whether that certificate expires or not at that time. This, I believe, will encourage the teacher to study psychology, and since it is required of teachers, I believe it is our duty to help them in this way.

"The History of Modern Elementary Education," published by Ginn & Company, is a good book and will be found very beneficial to the teachers but I am inclined to believe and insist that "Psychology and Psychic Culture" and "Everyday Problems in Teaching" are more essential and that it will be more profitable to the teacher, if only two are used.

Books for the Reading Circle can be had from the Oklahoma Book company, Oklahoma City.

Yours very truly,

R. H. WILSON,

State Superintendent.

College Station, Tex., July 28.—Bumper crops for Texas this year are predicted by the farmers who assembled here today from all over the state for the annual meeting of the Texas Farmers' Congress. The congress is being held at the Texas A. & M. College and will continue until Thursday.

Washington, July 26.—President Wilson today settled the fight for United States Marshal for the Eastern District of Oklahoma by appointment to that office of B. A. Enloe, mayor of McAlester. The Oklahoma delegation in congress was split over this appointment. Senator Gore and Representative Carter and other members from Oklahoma had endorsed H. B. Spaulding, former mayor of Muskogee. Enloe's name was sent to the senate today. He will succeed Grant Victor the Republican incumbent.

It is expected that the president shortly will name John A. Fain of Lawton for United States Attorney for Western District of Oklahoma.

SEA GULLS ARE TOWN'S PETS

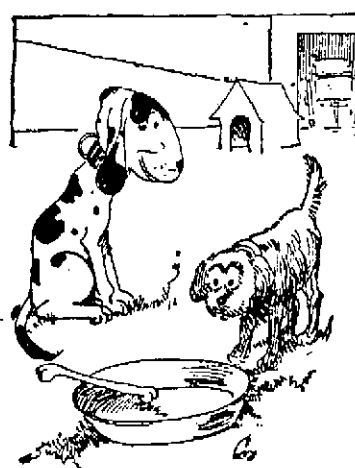

Inhabitants of Lerwick, in Shetland, Seem to Have Tamed One of the Wildest of Birds.

The village of Lerwick, in Shetland, possesses but on street and one tree. This tree is the resort of the famous pet seagulls of the place, birds of which the Shetlanders are very proud and to which they are very kind. They are the pets of the children, and to visitors they are always shown as the chief sight of the little town.

Just as sparrows live in the streets of a city, so do Lerwick's gulls have the run of its one street. In the morning one may see a seagull on every chimney pot, from which they swoop and hover over every roof of the town. It is said that each house has its own familiar bird, for which there is a nickname. The feeding of these birds is an interesting sight, since it is accomplished by the town children. Each bird, it is said, knows what provender is meant for it and makes no attempt to get away what is provided for its neighbor.

At night the gulls leave their street and their chimney pots and take flight to their resting places on the rocks of the Isle of Noss.

BY NO MEANS MODEL CITY.

Ghent, Belgium, has its seamy side, though many visitors will fail to notice it. The proportion of married women who work in factories is in Ghent nearly one to three, as compared with one in twenty in Liege. In the five years, 1907-7, Ghent's infant mortality averaged 23.1 per 100 births, as against Liege's 12.9. Ghent's general death rate per 1,000 is given as 21.7. And in 1906, a year of industrial prosperity, 1,193 Ghent families were receiving poor relief, not through sickness, disablement, old age, or winter seasonal difficulties, but on account of low wages and large families.

COUNTY PRISONERS WORKING ROAD

This morning work was begun on the road leading towards Byrd's Mill, the county furnishing seven prisoners and a number of citizens living along the road turning out with their teams. The bad place in the road between the Lucas place and brick kilns is receiving first attention.

The prisoners are being guarded by J. B. Goche and C. W. Zora who are paid for their services by the Ada Commercial Club.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON SUNDAY EVENING

Sunday evening, in the normal chapel, Rev. M. B. Molloy preached a very strong sermon to the graduating class. Special music for the occasion was furnished by a choir composed of normal students. A large congregation filled the auditorium.

On Thursday evening the graduating exercises will be held and Hon. William Durant will deliver the address to the class.

Notice of Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution, to me directed and delivered, issued out of the District Court of Pontotoc County, Oklahoma, in an action wherein the Art Brass Company, a corporation is plaintiff, and W. W. Daggs is the defendant, said action originated in the Justice Court, before H. J. Brown, justice of the Peace, an abstract of said judgment having been filed in the office of the clerk of the District Court of Pontotoc County, Oklahoma, I will on the 2nd day of Aug., 1913, between the hours of eight o'clock a. m. and four o'clock p. m. on said date at the court house door in county aforesaid, offer at public sale and sell to the highest bidder for cash in hand the following described property, to-wit: One lot of bath room fixtures which is more fully shown by the execution and appraisal which are referred to for more definite description, said property having been levied on as the property of the said W. W. Daggs and taken on execution in favor of the Art Brass Company.

Dated this 23rd day of July, 1913.

Daredevil Rodman Law in the sensational drama

"DEATH'S SHORT CUT"

This picture features Rodman Law, the well known aviator and parachute jumper, in a feat more daring than any he has attempted as yet. He actually goes over the Stillwater Falls (Maine) and falls a distance of 30 feet to the jagged rocks below, is thrown into the rapids and is rescued by two Stillwater young men. Law is the man who recently attempted to be shot into the air by a mammoth sky rocket, and came near losing his life when same exploded.

DURANT PREPARING FOR NEXT FOOTBALL SEASON

While it is a little early yet to talk of football, Coach Laird of the Southeastern football squad, states that he will have, the coming season, one of the strongest aggregations that has ever represented the Southeastern, and that means that he will have a team this winter that will be hard to beat. He has received promise from some of the strongest football men in the southwest that they intend entering the normal this fall, some of the men coming from Texas. During the past few weeks Mr. Laird has been busy preparing a schedule for the coming season, and he is matching games with some of the strongest college teams in the state, and says he is going to try to win the championship of the state this winter.

From the present outlook the lovers of football are going to have the pleasure of witnessing the best games the coming season that has ever been played on the local gridiron.—Durant Democrat.

THE Melting of Molly

By MARIA THOMPSON DAVIESS

Copyright, 1912, by the Hobbs-Merrill Company

SYNOPSIS

The teller of the story, Molly Carter, a young widow, awaiting the return of Al Bennett, an old flame, who is now a distinguished diplomat, tries to reduce weight. Her physician, adviser and next door neighbor is Dr. John, a widower and father of young Billy, whom Molly loves. Molly is surprised at play with Billy by Judge Wade, who is the most dignified and able man in Hillsboro. Billy comes over from next door with his father.

Hillsboro receives a visit from Ruth Chester, a friend of Bennett, and Molly finds her delightful. Molly goes to the city for an outfit of clothing.

Molly has trouble in reducing her weight. Billy's singing of an old love song about "Molly" under her window brings tears to her eyes.

She flirts with Tom Pollard, her cousin, who is a "ladies' man." She decides to re-enter Hillsboro society by giving a dinner. The doctor catches her eating forbidden jam.

Dr. John and Molly pay a visit to one of his patients, a young mother. She doesn't know whom she really wants to marry, but thinks she will accept Bennett. Tom invites Molly to a dance.

Of all Molly's dances the one with Dr. John pleases her most. Preparations for the dinner are under way. Bennett is almost due in Hillsboro. Billy eats too much and becomes sick.

At the dinner, which is a great success, Molly receives a telegram from Bennett asking permission to come to Hillsboro immediately.

Judge Wade sends Molly a love letter, which Molly thinks is too long and formal. Billy tells Molly he and his father are going to Europe. Molly disputes the doctor's right to part her and Billy.

Dashed!

DO believe God gave that wise angel charge concerning me lest I get dashed, but I just got dashed anyway, and it's my own fault, not the angel's. I have suffered this day until I want to lay my face down against the hem of his garment and wait in the dust for him to pick me up. I shall never be able to do it myself, and how he's going to do it I can't see, but he will.

That dinner party last night was bad enough, but today's been worse. I didn't sleep until long after daylight and then Judy came in before 8 o'clock with a letter for me that looked like a state document. I felt in my tremulous bones that it was some sort of summons affair from Judge Wade, and it was. I looked into the first paragraph and then decided that I had better get up and dress and have a cup of coffee and a single egg before I tried to read it.

Incidental to my bath and dressing, I weighed and found that I had lost all four of those last surplus pounds and two more in three days. Those two extra pounds might be construed to prove love, but exactly on whom I was utterly unprepared to say. I did not even enjoy the thinness, but took a kind of already married look in my glass and tried to slip the egg past my bored lips and get myself to chew it down. It was work, and then I took up the judge's letter, which also was work and more of it.

He started in at the beginning of everything—that is, at the beginning of the tuberculosis girl, and I cried over the pages of her as if she had been my own sister. At the tenth page we buried her and took up Alfred, and I must say I saw a new Alfred in the judge's bouquet strewn appreciation of him, but I didn't want him as bad as I had the day before when I read his own new and old letters and cried over his old photographs. I suppose that was the result of some of what the judge manages the juries with. He'd be apt to use it on a woman and she wouldn't find out about it until it was too late to be anything but mad. Still, when he began on me at page 16 I felt a little better, though I didn't know myself any better than I did Alfred when I got to page 20.

What I am is just a poor, foolish woman, who has a lot more heart than she can manage with the amount of brains she got with it at birth. I'm not any star in a rose colored sky, and I don't want to inspire anybody. It's too much of a job. I want to be a healthy, happy woman and a wife to a man who can inspire himself and manage me. I want to marry a thin man and have from fire to ten thin children, and when I get to be thirty I want my husband to want me to be as fat as Aunt Bettie, but not let me. An inspiration couldn't be fat, and I'm always in danger from hot muffins and chicken gravy. However, if I should undertake to be all the things Judge Wade said in that letter he wanted me to be to him, I should soon be skin and bones from mental and physical exercise. Still, he does live in Hillsboro, and I won't let myself know how my heart aches at the thought of leaving my home and other things. It's up in my throat and I seem always to be swallowing it, the last few days

All the men who write me letters seem to get themselves wound up into a skyrocket and then let themselves explode in the last paragraph, and it always upsets my nerves. I was just about to begin to cry again over the last words of the judge when the only bright spot in the day so far suddenly happened. Pet Buford blew in with the pinkest cheeks and the brightest eyes I had seen since I looked in the mirror the night of the dance. She was in an awful hurry.

"Molly, dear," she said, with her words literally falling over themselves. "Tom says you'll give us some of your dinner leftovers to take for lunch in the auto, for we are going way out to Wayne county to see some awfully fine tobacco he has heard is there. I don't want to ask mother, for she won't let me go, and his mother, if he asked her, will begin to talk about us. Tom said come to you and you would understand and fix it quick. He said kiss you for him and tell you he said 'Come on in, the water's fine.' Isn't he a joke?" And we kissed and laughed and packed a basket, and kissed and laughed again for goodby. I felt amused and happy for a few minutes and also deserted. It's a very good thing for a woman's conceit to find out how many of her lovers are just make believe. I may have needed Tom's defection.

Anyway, I don't know when I ever was so glad to see anybody as I was when Mrs. Johnson came in the front door. A woman who has proved to her own satisfaction that marriage is a failure is at times a great tonic to other women. I needed a tonic badly this morning, and I got it.

"Well, from all my long experience, Molly," she said as she seated herself and began to hem a dish towel with long, steady stabs, "husbands are just stuck candy in different jars. They may look a little different, but they all taste alike and you soon get tired of them. In two months you won't know the difference in being married to Al Bennett and Mr. Carter and you'll have to go on living with him maybe fifty years. Luck doesn't strike twice in the same place and you can't count on losing two husbands. Al's father was Mr. Johnson's first cousin and had more crochets and worse. He had silent spells that lasted a week and family prayers three times a day, though he got drunk twice a year for a month at a time. Al looks very much like him."

"Mrs. Johnson," I said after a minute's silence, while I had decided whether or not I had better tell her all about it (if a woman's in love with her husband you can't trust her to keep a secret, but I decided to try Mrs. Johnson). "I really am not engaged exactly to Alfred Bennett, though I suppose he thinks so by now if he has got the answer to that telegram. But—but something has made me—made me think about Judge Wade—that is, he—what do you think of him, Mrs. Johnson?" I concluded in the most pitifully perplexed tone of voice.

"All alike, Molly; all as much alike as peas in a pod; all except John Moore, who's the only exception in all the male tribe I ever met! His marrying once was just accidental and must be forgiven him. She fell in love with him while he was treating her for typhoid, when his back was turned, as it were, and it was God's own kindness in him that made him marry her when he found out how it was with the poor thing. There's not a woman in this town who could marry that wouldn't marry him at the drop of his hat; but, thank goodness, that hat will never drop and I'll have one sensible man to comfort and doctor me down into my old age. Now, just look at that! Mr. Johnson's come home here in the middle of the morning and I'll have to get that old paper I hunted out of his desk for him last night. I wonder how he came to forget it!" It's funny how Mrs. Johnson always knows what Mr. Johnson wants before he knows himself and gets it before he asks for it!

As she went out the gate the postman came in, and at the sight of another letter my heart again slunk off into my slippers and my brain seemed about to back up in a corner and refuse to work. In a flash it came to me that men oughtn't to write letters to women very much—they really don't plow deep enough; they just irritate the top soil. I took this massive from Alfred, counted all the fifteen pages, put it out of sight under a book, looked out the window and saw the ginger barber coming dejectedly around to the side gate from the kitchen—I knew the scene he had had with Judy about the bottle encounters of the night before—saw Mr. Johnson shooed off down the street by Mrs. Johnson; saw the doctor's car go chucking hurriedly in the garage, and then my spirit turned itself to the wall and refused to be comforted. I tried my best, but failed to respond to my own remonstrances with myself, and tears were slowly gathering in a cloud of gloom when a blue gingham, rompers clad sunbeam burst into the room.

"Git your nightgown and your toothbrush quick, Molly, if you want to pack 'em in my trunk!" he exclaimed, with his eyes dancing and a curl standing straight up on the top of his head, as it has a habit of doing when he is most excited. "You can't take nothing but them 'cause I'm going to put in a rope to tie the whale with when I catch him, and it'll take up all the rest of the room. Get 'em quick!"

"Yes, lover, I'll get them for you. But tell Molly where it is you are going to sail off with her in that trunk of yours?" I asked, dropping into the game as I have always done with him, no matter what game of my own pressed when he called.

"On the ocean where the boats go 'cross and run right over a whale. Don't you remember you showed me them pictures of 'spon' whales in a book, 'Molly? Doc says they comes right up by the ship and you can hear 'em shoot water. And maybe a iceberg, too. Which do you want to catch most, Molly, a iceberg or a whale?" His eager eyes demanded instant decision on my part of the nature of capture I preferred. My mind quickly reverted to those two ponderous and intense epistles I had got within the hour, and I lay back in my chair and laughed until I felt almost merry.

"The iceberg, Billy, every time," I said at last. "I just can't manage whales, especially if they are ardent, which word means hot. I like icebergs or I think I should if I could catch one."

"I don't believe you could, Molly, but maybe Doc will let you put a rope and a long hook in his trunk to try with if your clothes go into mine. His is a heap the biggest anyway and Nurse Tilly said he oughter put my things in his, but I cried and then he went upstairs and got out that little one for me. Come see 'em!"

"What do you mean, Billy?" I asked, while a sudden fear shot all over me like lightning. "You're just playing go away, aren't you?"

"No, I ain't playing, Molly!" he exclaimed excitedly. "Me and you and doc is a-going across the ocean for a long, long time away from here. Doc ast me about it this morning, and I told him all right and you could come with us if you was good. He said couldn't I go without you if you was busy and couldn't come and I told him you would put things down, and come if I said so. Won't you, Molly? It won't be no fun without you and you'd cry all by yourself with me gone." His little face was all drawn up with anxiety and sympathy at my lonely estate with him out of it, and a cry rose up from my heart with a kind of primitive savagery at what I felt was coming down upon me.

Without waiting to take him with me or think or do anything but feel dead, savage anger, I hurried across the garden and into Dr. Moore's office, where he was just laying off his gloves and dust coat.

KICKING ON NEGRO'S APPOINTMENT

Oklahoma City, Ok., July 28.—Oklahoma Democrats, to say nothing of the white applicants for Federal appointments, let out a loud roar over the announcement that A. E. Patterson, a Muskogee negro, had been named to fill a position in the Treasury Department paying $5,000 a year. A large number of protests went to Washington by telegraph.

The Patterson appointment will be charged to this state's portion of patronage, and that it can in no way assist the party's fortunes is the general verdict, since 90 per cent of the negroes in Oklahoma are disfranchised under the grandfather clause. A score or more applications are on file for Federal places by men who have been identified with the party's struggles before Oklahoma became a state and some announced today they would ask their Congressman to withdraw their names.

According to J. B. Richards, president of the Young Men's League of Democratic Clubs, telephone messages came from the east side urging that the league draft a protest against the recognition of negroes for Oklahoma in preference to white applicants. Many democrats do not oppose the appointment of a negro to the Treasury position, since it is controlled by a long precedent, but claim it should have gone to a state where it could have had an appreciable effect. Republicans and Progressives declare the Democratic leaders have practically deserted their greatest issue in Oklahoma.

E. J. Giddings, chairman of the judiciary committee of the Democratic State Central Committee, tonight telegraphed Congressmen Murray and Davenport protesting against Patterson's confirmation and congratulating them for their opposition. The message says: "From expressions heard, Oklahoma Democrats will beat any man who backs this appointment."

STRONG DEMANDS ON MEXICAN GOVERNMENT

Washington, July 27.—Strong representations, the most drastic in phraseology that have been made since the present American Administration came into power, were made to the Huerta government in Mexico today.

The United States government demanded not only the prompt arrest, court-martial and punishment of the Mexican Federal soldiers who shot Charles B. Dixon, an American immigration official, at Juarez, Mexico, but the immediate release of Charles Bissell and Bernard McDonald, mining managers, imprisoned by Federal soldiers at Chihuahua City, and said to be threatened with execution.

So serious were these incidents regarded in official circles that they overshadowed largely the theoretical considerations of policy which the visit of Ambassador Henry Lang Wilson has brought to a climax. The ambassador himself was so excited over the developments in Mexico that he dictated two strong telegrams, one to the Embassy at the City of Mexico and the other to the American Consul at Juarez, and while Secretary Bryan slightly modified their tone, they were approved and promptly dispatched.

Ambassador Wilson declined to discuss the affair, but he will probably explain his views on such happenings when he meets President Wilson at 280 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for a general expression of views as to Mexico. The president had Ambassador Wilson's long report in hand today, studied it carefully and after an early conference tomorrow with Secretary Bryan will be prepared to inquire of the Ambassador what remedies he would suggest.

In the meantime the Ambassador would give no inkling of what he had in mind beyond the general statement that his plan would seal the friendly relations between Mexico and the United States and protect likewise the interests of American citizens in the Southern Republic.

Auto Racing at Galveston.

Galveston, Tex., July 28.—Incoming trains this morning brought large contingents of automobile enthusiasts to attend the Galveston beach races.

With cars running at top speed for the final tryouts before the great races, the speedy drivers who are to strive for the handsome trophies and cash prizes offered by the Galveston Cotton Carnival and the American Automobile Association of Texas, made run after run over the beach course this morning, perfecting their acquaintance with every foot of its distance, and shaking their engines down to their fittest form for the great tests of speed and endurance.

The regular program of races was inaugurated this afternoon and will be continued over tomorrow and Wednesday. The program provides for fourteen events with cash prizes aggregating $8,550, the distances ranging from the one-mile flying start to the free-for-all $5,000 Cotton Carnival Sweepstakes, to be run for four hours and a half through all three days of the races.

Among the business visitors today were W. H. Stevens and H. G. Foster of Stoneville and J. N. Ross, who lives near Jesse.

DEMONSTRATION AGENT GETS PROMOTION

The work of A. L. Kennedy as farm demonstration agent of Pontotoc county during the past two years long ago attracted the attention of the Frisco railroad and for sometime it has been trying to secure his services. Finally an offer was made him that was too flattering to resist, and in a few days he will take charge of the Frisco demonstration work for the state of Arkansas.

Mr. Kennedy has made a most gratifying success of this line of work during his two years in Pontotoc county, and already his efforts are in the improved methods of growing bearing fruit throughout the county in the improved methods being employed by many of the most progressive farmers who are always quick to seize any idea that insures them a better yield.

A splendid proof of Mr. Kennedy's success in applying improved methods is to be found in the Frisco demonstration farm on the site of the old nursery on the west side. Although he failed to get a stand of corn at the first planting and it was the latter part of April before he replanted, his corn is sure of twenty bushels per acre, and the cotton already has at least half a bile to the acre on the stalks. While his leaving will cause general regret all will be pleased to see his energy and enterprise recognized by this promotion which has come to him.

MOSTLY FAIR WEATHER FOR THIS WEEK

Washington, July 27.—Except for local thunderstorms, generally fair weather is predicted for the coming week by the Weather Bureau and no unusually high temperatures are expected.

"A moderate depression now extending from the lower Missouri Valley northeastward to Lake Superior," said the weekly bulletin tonight, "will move eastward attended by local thunderstorms during the early days of the week from the Ohio Valley and lower lake region eastward. The showers will be followed by rising pressure with fair weather that will probably continue during the remainder of the week.

"Over the Central and Western sections generally fair weather will prevail, although local thunderstorms are probable early in the week over both slopes of the Central and Southern Rocky Mountains. A cool wave that now covers the Northwest will spread eastward and southeastward in modified form."

NEGROES MURDER FARMER NEAR PAULS VALLEY

Pauls Valley, Okla., July 28.—Three negroes held A. G. Arlington, a white man, near Hennepin, Okla., Friday night while a negro severed Arlington's head from his body. The negro used a razor. Arlington was selling watermelons at a negro picnic.

The four negroes purchased a melon from him and disputed the price. When they threatened him, Arlington ran. He was pursued by the negroes and caught a quarter of a mile down the road. A posse is searching for the negroes.
